

I was just as interested in catching butterflies.

Ever since I was a kid, I've been asking questions about the birds and the bees. How do they fly? What do they eat?

Now that I'm a trained scientist, my questions may be more sophisticated, but the passion is the same. I wonder what climate change is doing to the life cycle of wildflowers, and how bumblebees and hummingbirds are reacting to those changes. The bug's-eye view shows me that our world is warming like never before. My name is David Inouye, and I'm a concerned scientist.

To learn more about my work, visit www.ucsusa.org/evidence

Union of Concerned
Scientists

Citizens and Scientists for Environmental Solutions

